Penne De Marco

(Reserved)

Dear Penne,

Well, our 12 years of formal education have finally come to a close; our friendship has just begun. It is to my regret that I have not met you sooner because by now our friendship would have been stronger by now. I can say though, the times we have spent together have been a blast. Never forget the taverns & our dear pal Rick. May all your dreams come true providing they're not immoral, illegal or fattening. I won't be missing you because I hope we remain as close as we are now. Good luck, be good, stay happy & keep smiling. Thanks for the help you have given me within the past couple of months; you have proven to be a good, true & loyal friend. God bless you & keep you in his loving care.

Love
Chris

Dear Penn

Don't forget Lunch 4th period

All my love & best wishes

MADONNA HIGH SCHOOL

CHICAGO, ILLINOIS

THE FACE OF THE SCHOOL

*"To live is to change . . .
And to be perfect
is to have changed often."*

The face of Madonna is changing. Each school year brings new students who alter her profile. Their attitudes, actions, and ideas give her a character that is truly her own. Madonna can't afford to remain the same—to function uniformly year in and year out. The changing times demand of her a face capable of meeting the face of the future—a face as versatile as the very challenges with which she will be confronted. Madonna High School is ready, accepting the challenge of progress and the prospect of a bright future with a new look.

Today is not yesterday.

The winds of Change give each day its own identity—

So that life may grow . . .

So that it may take the best of the past

To make a better future.

THEME

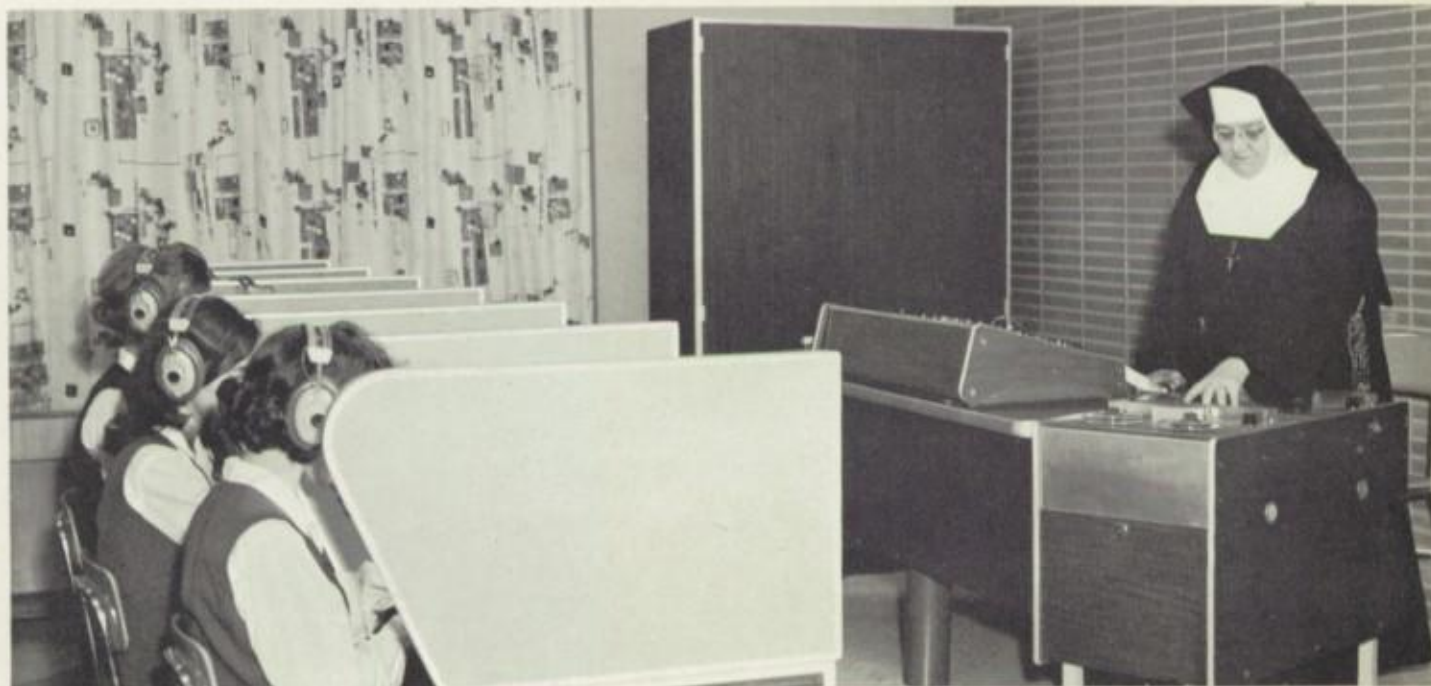

Preserving order amid change, change amid order—

This is the world . . .

This is Madonna . . .

This is MAdonnaRY 1965.

DEPARTMENTS

Young minds are in constant change—

Questioning . . .

Exploring . . .

Demanding the best to produce the best.

This is why Madonna's faculty continually alters its curriculum—

Building a language laboratory . . .

Expanding the various fields of study . . .

Broadening the present so that it may include

All that the future demands.

Being the principal of a large high school is no small task. There are schedules to meet, people to greet, and a school to run. There is a constant flow of decisions to make with little time in which to make them. In fact, there is hardly time for anything else besides the chores of taskmaster. But Sister Mary Hugoline finds the time—and this is what makes her more than chief decision-maker at Madonna. She finds time to care not only about major administrative problems but also about the individual student who needs special advice. She finds time to inject her own warmth and vitality into every aspect of school life, time to keep a steady balance of change and order within the school. Madonna High School's reputation for scholarship and leadership has made Madonnians very happy that Sister Mary Hugoline cares.

Religion

No other subject is as important to youth as the study of their priceless heritage, the Roman Catholic faith. At Madonna the study of religion advances in depth and challenge commensurate with each advancing level.

Pope Paul said: "If you are faithful Christians . . . you will be able to face up to the various transformations and changes of modern progress." The study of religion aids students to become such Christians, leading them to an understanding of the responsibilities facing woman in her vocation as a total Christian and her various roles as wife, mother, Religious, or career woman.

Lynn Garstki, Irene Uniat, and Margaret O'Connor arrange the bulletin display on the new liturgy.

Sister Mary Ignatius, Sister Mary Charitas, Miss Rosalie Zygowicz, and Sister Cheryl Marie discuss the importance of the Scripture as a general background to the truths of our faith.

Religion

Sister Cheryl Marie involves the eyes and ears of her senior religion class with a dramatic visual presentation of a discussion topic.

Sister Mary Alberta, Sister Mary Therese, Sister Mary Antonima, Sister Mary Christine, and Sister Mary Agnes Ann plan means to inspire and motivate their students to bring the liturgy into actual and daily expression.

Helen Dorosz traces the spread of Christianity into the world.

Visualization is one of the most effective techniques for teaching the liturgy. Sister Mary Concordia, Sister Mary Marinella, and Sister Mary Tarcisia organize filmstrips, pictures, models, and charts to make their classes more effective.

Sister Mary Agnes Ann explains the new directives of the Ecumenical Council concerning Holy Scripture to Vicky Kowalewski, Louise Landem, Helen Dolik, and Joan Piekos.

Christine Keown prepares to give a brief description of the scriptural background of the passages from the Bible which will be read in class.

Barbara Sklodowski and Christine Rusniak discover that discussions involve quite a bit of thinking.

Cynthia Janisch, Barbara Thomas, Christine Malszewski, Carol Zurawski, Gail Litz, Carol Szczepanski, Donna Dluzen, Carol Hoglund sort through audio-visual material in preparation for a detailed presentation of American poetry.

English

Marcia Kapalczynski, Kathy Gulanowski, and Pamela Suba listen to a recording of Edgar Allen Poe's short stories.

"The surprise of remembering something I didn't know I knew" was Robert Frost's reaction to poetry. The reaction of a student of English is similar. Why? The answer is simple. Madonna's English courses are geared toward that very "remembrance." Each lesson aims to instruct the pupil in unfamiliarities and to heighten what she already knows. She achieves this elevation and expansion of life experience through a study of literature, grammar, and composition. There is the hope that this study will end as a perfect poem ends—in a "clarification of life, a momentary stay against confusion."

ENGLISH

As Susan Knych interprets a scene from The Merchant of Venice, freshmen English students Susan Parzygnat, Annette Quinnett, and Margaret Petmezas agree that reading Shakespeare can be fun.

Re-enacting the action song "Sur le Pont d'Avignon" are Carol Dudek, Sharon Knarr, Diane Mitchell, and Pamela Suba.

SISTER MARY DOLOROSA
French I/II/III

Sister Mary Dorothy demonstrates the correct techniques of Spanish enunciation.

Languages

Language learning is an integral part of American education. Students need to know that other people speak and think differently and react differently to situations. The study of a language implies the development of four skills: listening, speaking, reading, and writing. To facilitate this development Madonna has provided her students with a language laboratory.

The purpose of the language laboratory is to multiply the effectiveness of the teacher and stimulate the progress of the students by allowing them to improve and correct their own performance. As a result of this study, the students come to a greater understanding and appreciation of the contributions which European societies have made to our American culture.

Melody Henner and Donna Gaden use their knowledge of French to read advertisements.

Festival time is pinata time for the Spanish students.

Senior librarians June Krasucki and Carlotta Silewicz will have that desk cleared in no time.

Library

The hub of all scholastic activity at Madonna, the library holds a wealth of information to fill the gaps in formal education. Containing the thoughts of the wisest, wittiest, most stimulating minds, the library is the school's intellectual heart, which triggers the slightest beat of interest into a spirited pulsation in quest of knowledge. As Dyer said: "Libraries are the wardrobes of literature, where men, properly informed, may bring forth something for ornament, much for curiosity, and more for use." Surely, Madonnians do all three.

Cynthia Krajenta acquaints herself with the periodical index.

Educational films, used as supplementary teaching aids, are stored away by librarians Judy Jelen and Geraldine Ciesla.

Librarians Bernadine Jelen and Margaret Retzke adjust the focus on the overhead projector.

Camille Swierk and Barbara Rezutko, student librarians, stock the shelves with the latest paperbacks.

Social Studies

The world is constantly changing—geographically, politically, philosophically, and socially. Courses in social studies enable students to know the past, understand the present, and prepare for a more perfect future.

By studying environment and its effects on man's customs and cultures, examining the past and interpreting social events in chronological order, and observing human behavior and the purpose of man's actions, Madonnians gain a deeper insight into the world around them.

Besides using the assigned text for comprehensive reading, teachers present audio-visual material, invite guest speakers, and sponsor field trips to various social agencies. In this way, Madonnians are prepared for world citizenship.

Informal discussions are an integral part of the sociology class. Led by Candida Nozika, these seniors pool their ideas concerning communism.

Barbara Kicanas, Linda Stanton, Jo Ann Hoffman, Carol Kasperek, and Vivian Wroblewski discuss some of today's social problems.

Library research for Modern History is done by Sandra Redisi, Linnea Stopa, and Linda Podgorski.

Invited speakers help broaden a Madonnian's outlook on life. Mr. Cook of Friendship House discusses his work with Dolores Nowak, Barbara Duggan, Christine Keown, and Emily Kukula.

A group of enthusiastic juniors rally for the candidates of their choice.

Science

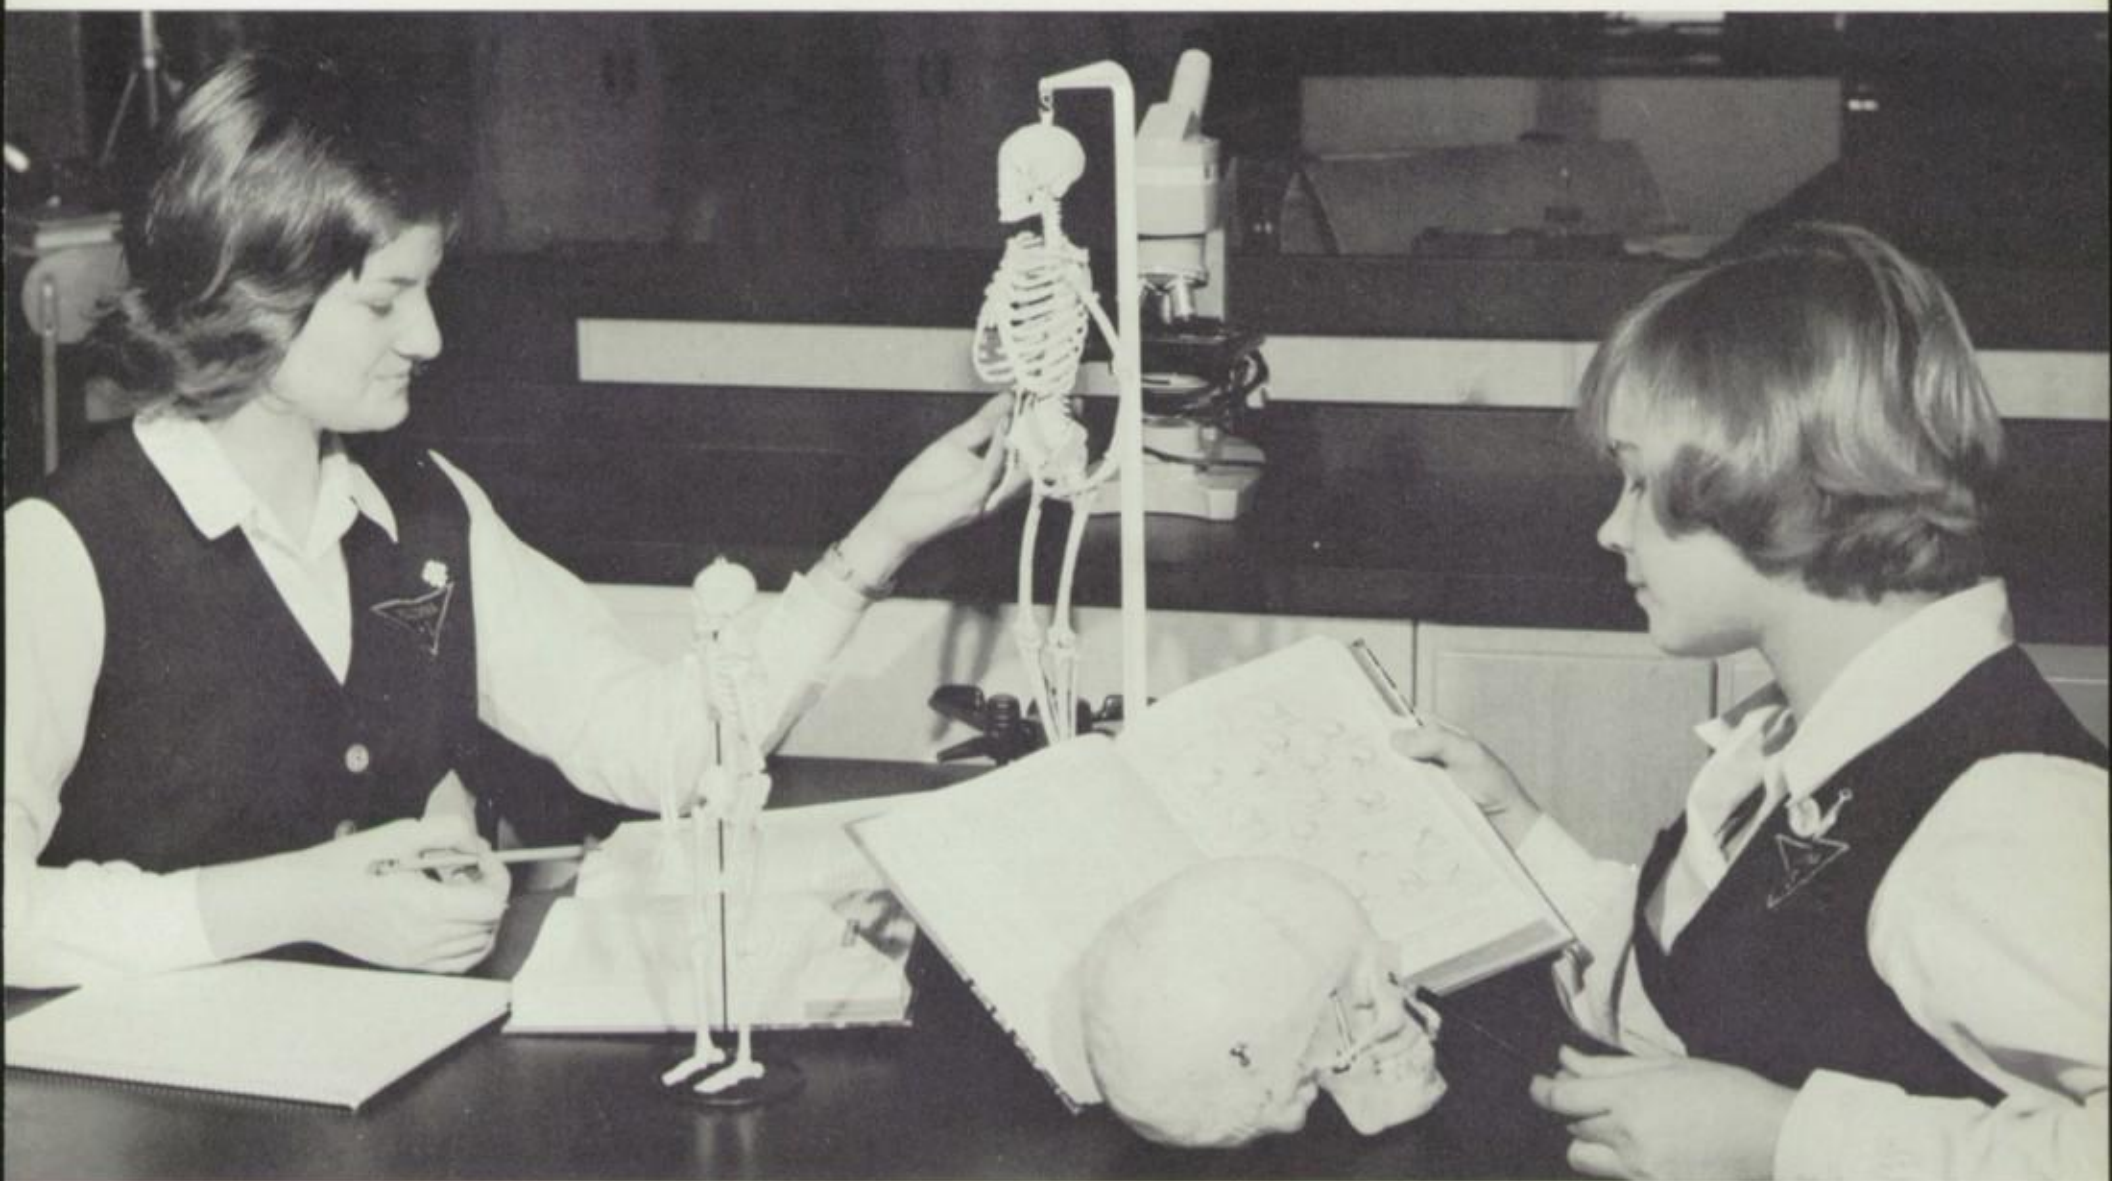

We are living through a period of momentous change. The power of science is increasing with unprecedented speed, bringing with it great opportunities and critical problems. Because of this evolution, Madonna's science curriculum is constantly changing, and students are challenged with both fundamentals and new theories. Today, science is literally exploding with ideas and attacking ignorance, poverty, and disease in the process. Realizing the importance of scientific progress, Madonnians apply themselves diligently to that study which will pay off in greater productivity, less suffering, and a longer life.

Margaret Bratek and Bernadine Ciesla study the art of accurate weight measurement.

Mary Ellen Hobik and Jean Szewczyk, advanced biology students, find their study of biochemistry fascinating.

Lucy Szadkowski and Bettina Kachnik study the structure of man's skeletal system.

Science

Carolyn Syc and Jean Sourile experiment with a light bulb to determine the electronic conductivity of certain chemical solutions.

Trigonometry student Fanny Montalvo graphically represents the concept of the tangent function.

Mathematics

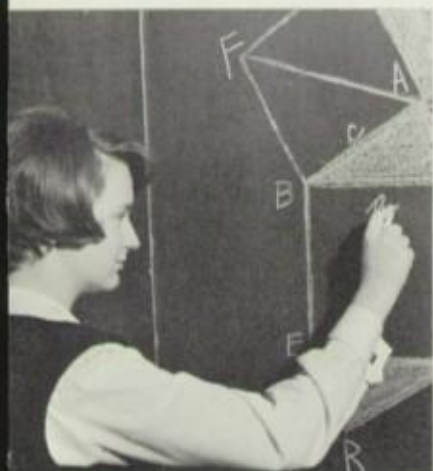

Today schools are witnessing an irreversible process of change in mathematics education. What was yesterday considered advanced is now being treated as standard. Because of the upward sweep of a scientific and technical civilization, a dynamic curriculum is needed. At Madonna the new approach seeks to broaden and diversify while holding fast to all the previous mathematics that is of value. Students are encouraged to think through mathematics themselves, and, as a result, the subject has become more stimulating and enjoyable.

Geometry

Alice Glozeris uses the abacus as an aid in understanding the structure of the number system.

Laura Koss and Karen Reczek demonstrate the method of constructing straight line curves.

Mariann Schroeder is puzzled by the proof of the Pythagorean theorem.

First speaker for the negative is Denise Pakula.

Debate

Debate—formal argumentation—is an educational experience in which participants master speech skills and develop habits of investigation. Beyond the self-confidence attained through public speaking, the debaters develop an appetite for being informed on all current events.

Classroom debates, interscholastic debates and forensic tournaments, Student Congresses, and speech workshops are part of the debaters' schedule. Sister Mary Antonella and Sister Mary Bernardonia guide the team to many victories. Long hours of work dissolve when the teams "come home" with trophies to prove that they are well-informed, well-prepared, and ready for action.

Mary McDonough demonstrates her skill in extemporaneous speaking.

Christine Wessel delivers her award-winning interpretation of Amy Lowell's poem "Patterns."

Business Education

"Give us good people—efficient, productive, and ambitious," cry prospective employers. The business education department produces such top-notch young women who will soon offer their services to our economic system. Recognizing that the changing economic order reflects changes in occupations, the department revises its curriculum to keep abreast of the employment trends.

Besides training in typing, bookkeeping, shorthand, and office practice, social and character guidance is offered. The Madonnian entering the business world is trained to be a modern woman in every sense of the word. She is a woman of this age, cognizant of the needs of modern economy and the part she must play in the business field.

Accuracy and proficiency in typing are the goals of Carol Anzalone and Christine Sobierski.

Students in the office practice classes work individually and at speeds determined by their abilities.

Postulant Nora Wohlander admires the work done by first year typing students.

Jacqueline Viani tests her skill with the thermometer.

Rose Manganello, Jeanette Permin, and Barbara Jean Jarzowski transport the patient, Barbara Szosteki, according to Civil Defense standards.

Home Nursing

Madonnians in home nursing classes are trained to be alert and prepared to meet and cope with any emergency. One period each week is devoted to lessons in first-aid, nutrition, and proper care of the sick and the aged. In addition to these instructions, a course in mother-baby care is offered. At the end of the term, those girls who pass the course successfully are awarded certificates.

Anna Marie Kostecki and Kathleen Bienia, Red Cross volunteers, discover the value of improvising in the absence of adequate facilities.

Betty Roeske and Sandra Lehman improvise a vaporizer similar in use to the one assembled by Sandra Knapkiewicz and Mary Ann Miller.

SISTER MARY ALACOQUE

Clothing

"What shall I wear today?" The girls in the Clothing Department find this a simple problem to solve, because with a little time and imagination, they've managed to fill their closets with ensembles to fit every occasion—from lounging in the sun to dancing at the Senior Prom.

After the students learn the basic techniques of sewing, they use this knowledge to create new and exciting wardrobes. The clothing program also offers instruction in selecting materials and budgeting expenses.

Barbara Jager, Josephine Manganello, and Jeanette Permin display their jumpers and skirts for Jacqueline Viani and Beatrice Beltrami to admire.

While cutting out their patterns, Michaeline Carlson, Kathleen Lisowski, and Joanne Golaszewski wonder what the finished product will be like.

To be sure that she cuts her material properly, Constance Kowalewski checks the sewing book.

After Home Management class, Mary Ellen Escobar, Cathy Green, and Colette Dolgopal leave their unit looking spotless.

Nutrition

In this era the modern homemaker spends less time in the kitchen than her grandmother did. Yet, she sets a high standard for the meals she prepares. Under competent direction, tomorrow's career girls and future homemakers learn that the secret of successful meal preparation lies in knowing when to do what. Here the girls establish sensible eating habits and plan economical and satisfying meals with better nutritional balance.

Letting their talents run riot, Madonna's home economic experts also develop the woman's touch of adding notes of warmth, color and beauty throughout the home.

THIS IS THE WAY WE MAKE OUR ROLLS!

Carol Paluch and Kathleen Lisowski demonstrate the first step in baking—an accurate measurement.

Carol kneads the dough . . . and rolls it out carefully.

Kathy joins Carol in forming the crescent-shaped buns.

Sampling the finished product is the only task left.

Judi Borczyk and Mary Litwinko test the speeds on the osterizer.

"Hurry, Sandra Cregier!" Christine Askramowicz, Sharon Szatek, and Mary Weger can't wait to taste your new pancake creations.

It's a rare moment when the art room is not filled with the busy sounds of artists at work.

Donna Freeman, Diane Szepek, Erica Zak, and Carol Lapetina use the techniques of the "Old Masters" to create monoprints.

Art

SISTER MARY SPOUSA
Art Appreciation/Art/Ceramics/Crafts

Madonna's art program offers students the opportunity to explore the realm of creativity and self-expression. Here the novice or advanced artists can cultivate their talents. Knowledge of materials and techniques is the starting point, but emphasis from there is directed toward individual development.

Art students enjoy a personal satisfaction by expressing their ideas and ideals through different mediums. At the same time, a study of art history and appreciation deepens the students' dimensions, broadens their tastes, and refines their temperaments.

Mary Roman and Kathy Skora carve wood in relief.

Kathleen Pavlovich prepares the kiln for firing.

Senior art students Cynthia Goffron and Janet Wendel work at their own pace with guidance from their teacher.

Music

Each year, Madonna's music program grows in depth and scope. Freshmen in music appreciation classes can vouch for the fact that the study of music is not treated lightly. Because music must be understood before it can be loved, students are introduced to the pleasure of informed listening. They are given new insight into the languages, forms, and structures of music. The lives, philosophies, and achievements of the masters and the performers of our era are studied.

Private piano and organ instructions are offered to interested students, who build a vast repertoire of classical and popular music. Certificates of achievement won in the duo-piano competition at DePaul University testify to the success of this section of the music department.

The Christmas spirit is reflected in the vibrant voices of this section of the Glee Club.

Music

Sister Mary Euphemia guides Sandra Herner through a difficult passage.

Madonna's combined Glee Clubs form the largest organization in the school, and few others can boast of the energetic participation of its members. The excellent quality and sparkling clearness of the record "Christmas at Madonna" gained city-wide recognition for the Glee Club. The club also receives accolades for its participation in the Catholic Music Festival.

The Symphonic Band is another musical asset to the school. With exploding brass and a pulsating rhythm section, its program ranges from symphonies to versions of current Broadway musicals. At Christmas and Easter, the Glee Club and the Band combine in a tuneful program dedicating their talents to the Divine Musician.

Physical Education

MISS SHARON REICHLE
Physical Education

At the sound of a whistle, forty poised and eager girls stand in squads ready for class. The minutes during roll calls are the only ones spent standing still for the rest of the period. Class begins at a moderate pace, but soon bodies limber up, activity increases, and faces acquire a rosy glow.

At different seasons of the year, stress is placed on baseball, basketball, and volleyball. Rounding off Madonna's physical education program, calisthenics, dancing, and tumbling help to develop the strength, stamina, and endurance needed for enjoyment of a happy life.

Linda Izzo and Marion Nowak practice dribbling to develop skill in basketball.

Student Council

What's new? The 1964-65 Student Council of Madonna High School. To keep in step with an ever-changing and growing student body, this important organization has been revitalized. A new constitution, an eight-member executive board, a courtesy-card disciplinary system, are some of the innovations introduced by the Student Council.

Besides aiding the administration with school government, the Student Council creates opportunities for students to participate together in worthwhile enterprises requiring leadership, initiative, imagination, and responsibility. Encouraged by their moderators, members of the Student Council manage various aspects of school life, and learn skills of effective cooperative action.

Cecilia Bieszcza eulogizes the late President John F. Kennedy during the memorial assembly.

Valerie Zmuda, president of the 1963-64 Student Council, administers the oath of office to Christine Wessel.

In a school as large as Madonna, problems of discipline and organization must be kept at a minimum. This is the task of the Student Council. The officers are: Sister Mary Tyburcia, moderator; Susan Alchenberger, vice-president; Christine Wessel, president; Sister Mary Christine, dean of discipline; Karen Mendala, treasurer; and Emily Kukula, secretary.

National Honor Society

The candle symbolizing leadership is lighted.

Members of the National Honor Society are distinguished by four necessary qualities—character, leadership, scholarship, and service. Membership in the society offers a challenge and the opportunity to develop these characteristics. Mindful of their pledge and of the society's ideals, the members undertake a variety of worthwhile projects doing what they can for their Church, their school, and their community.

Cardinal Newman said: "Great objects exact a venture, and a sacrifice is the condition of honor." This quotation is particularly applicable to the National Honor Society.

Guest speaker State's Attorney Daniel Ward addresses the convocation.

Assisted by Christine Wessel, Sister Mary Hugoline distributes pins to the newly-inducted National Honor Society members.

Christine Wessel, president, administers the oath of office to Karen Mendala, treasurer; Susan Alchenberger, vice-president; and Emily Kukula, secretary.

All eyes focus eagerly on the new senior rings.

Ring Day

"Turn it around and make a wish," command the seniors as they proudly thrust forth their ring hands to the underclassmen. Like so many other traditions initiated at Madonna, this one is cherished by all the students, but especially by the seniors, for it is part of their Ring Day.

The ring each senior receives holds personal memories that represent her years at Madonna. Her individual successes and failures, hopes and dreams are all captured in a golden band, a blue stone, and a golden crest—the ring of a Madonnian.

Linda Blake proudly displays her ring to her parents.

Dancing to the music of the Del Royals, couples crowd the gymnasium-auditorium.

Arlene Euske, Louise Phillip, and their escorts stop for refreshments.

Constance Danis and friend admire the attractive Parisian arch.

Patricia Kutza, Nancy Zarembka, and their escorts comment on the decorations.

Christine Bryl, Jennie, Munet, Christine Dudkiewicz, and Ursula Krus lend atmosphere to the Parisian theme of the Ring Dance.

A mirror reflects only a portion of the happiness that prom night holds for these seniors and their escorts.

Prom

Prom night works a special kind of bewitchment. The Madonnian becomes a Cinderella, a magic wand transforming her blue uniform, loafers, and books into a prom dress, slippers, and corsage. That special May evening finds her introducing her escort to the faculty and receiving her bid. Before leaving, each senior offers a rose to the Madonna dedicating the evening to her.

The few hours of dancing and visiting with classmates pass swiftly, and as one of the last senior gatherings before graduation ends, each Cinderella adds a chapter to her book of memories.

Nancy Granito leads the seniors in singing their class song, "Stay With Me."

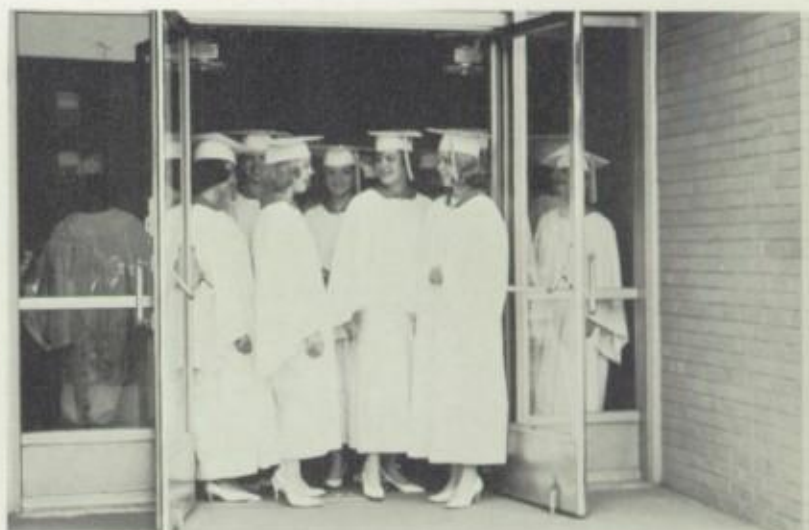

The grand march and memories of Madonna draw the seniors together for their last happy moments as a group.

Joyce Fritz, Marilyn Grodecki, and their escorts pause for a moment to admire their surroundings.

Laughter fills the air of the Chateau Royale as Janice Zelasko, Margaret O'Rourke, Janet Czech, Barbara Tessner, and their escorts exchange anecdotes about their high school experiences.

Cecile Dooley performs the traditional gesture of turning the tassel to signify her graduation from high school.

A challenging and exciting future lies just beyond the threshold for these Madonnians.

Graduation

These are demanding, critical years. But the graduate is prepared to meet them—working, striving, constantly requiring the best, building upon a foundation strengthened by four years of studious preparation. The graduate first came to Madonna for sanctity and wisdom. She was guided toward sanctity and shown that wisdom is attainable through hard work and perseverance. Now she enters into a world new and exciting. It isn't the best world. But it's her world. She must be ready to meet it. She is.

After four years of preparation and anticipation, graduation finally becomes a reality.

Anticipation glows on the face of Patricia Zam-bito moments before graduation.

Christine Chudik smiles her thanks as she receives her diploma from the Very Reverend Bernard J. Bak, C.R., and the Reverend Francis Maniola.

Sister Mary Therese extends sincere congratulations to Bernadine Maczka, Kathleen Kinzey, Cynthia Kolassa, and Halina Marlega.

UNDERCLASSMEN

"They also serve

Who only stand and wait."

Though not in the vanguard,

Underclassmen fulfill the vital task

Of supporting those programs promoted by others.

Meeting . . .

Joining . . .

Competing . . .

Serving the offices

They will one day fill themselves.

The Junior Division officers are Nancy Zarembka, treasurer; Constance Danis, secretary; Sharon Carbonara, vice-president; and Cecelia Bieschat, president.

JUNIORS

They can't be satisfied with second-best.

They can't afford to.

Juniors in their third year of high school

Look forward to stiff competition.

There are tests to take, honors to make,

Contests to win.

There are all the things that make or break the student,

All the competition

That is Junior Year.

SOPHOMORES

They've got the whole world in their hands—

Or so they think.

Armed with the self-confidence of troupers

And a new-felt sense of "belonging,"

Sophomores revel in their independence.

There are schedules to plan,

Clubs to join, decisions to make,

Promises to keep.

They have about themselves an air of excitement,

All the excitement

That is Sophomore Year.

FRESHMEN

Long after the unfamiliar faces become familiar

And teachers' names memorized,

Long after the school song becomes perfected

And the floor plan put down pat,

Freshmen will remember those first, frenzied days—

Curiosity . . . exploration . . . discovery.

And though the following three years may be more rewarding,

The girls will not forget

The experience of meeting and intermingling

That is Freshman Year.

It's not surprising what Freshmen must do on Initiation Day!

ACTIVITIES

The last bell rarely ends the school day.

Long after the books are closed, students can be found—

Teaching CCD classes . . .

Planning newspaper layouts . . .

Debating at C.I.C. meetings . . .

Extending the experience of learning

To become students, not only of books,

But of life itself.

Senior Sodality Council members Rita Kowalczyk, treasurer; Christine Jakus, Diane Dus, vice-prefect; Sandra Truschke, prefect; Pat Pomykalski, Rita Galuszka, secretary; Frances Jakubow, and Carol Groth discuss plans for the next meeting.

Sodality

Sodalists show an extraordinary devotion to the Mother of God. Uniting themselves to Mary through their daily act of consecration, the sodalists arouse within themselves an ardent desire to live more Christian lives and to defend the Church in the name of Mary.

Sister M. Therese, Sister Cheryl Marie, Sister M. Agnes Ann, and Miss Rosalie Zygowicz lead over two hundred fifty sodalists in their apostolic work both in and out of school. By doing simple things—drying dishes, answering doorbells, working with the aged, collecting food for the poor—the sodalists practice virtue in their daily lives.

Getting into the spirit of Christmas are the Junior Sodality Council members Judy Weiss, Jackie Chuckro, Nancy Samoraj, Pauline Wehr, Mary Jean Murphy, Valerie Masessa, and Elaine Kroll, as they address Christmas cards to the people at St. Joseph's Home for the Aged.

Halloween night finds St. Joseph's Home for the Aged the scene of the Third Order's costume party.

Third Order

The Third Order realizes that its members need challenge—it is the only corrective for stunted spirituality. Complying with the demand for "Aggiornamento," the Third Order accepts the challenge to renew, to change, to rejuvenate. Its members wish to develop a solid piety that profoundly and substantially permeates their lives. The vital spark of serving God through man has been ignited in the tertiaries, who are missionaries to their families, friends, the needy, the aged.

At Madonna, led by Sister Mary Tarcisia, Sister Mary Concordia, Sister Angela Marie, and Sister Mary Esther, the Third Order sponsors such activities as the Advent Wreath and the Christmas ceremonies.

Preparing a leadership display are Third Order members and officers: Elizabeth Danello, secretary; Mary Roman, Sharon Rezmer, treasurer; Kathy Skora, Christine Dudek, prefect and Barbara Cohn, vice-prefect.

The Reverend Frank Ryzner, retreat master, conducts a private conference with Frances Favia.

Retreat

Through spiritual reading Madonnians enter into a closer union with God.

Madonnians begin a retreat day by attending Holy Mass and receiving Holy Communion.

Moments of silent prayer in chapel are an important part of the retreat for Margie Jamnick.

Every year, God beckons the Madonnians off the merry-go-round of their busy lives, and invites them to spend a few days alone with Him. Away from the dizzy pace of worldly affairs, the students have time to re-evaluate their ideals, to sit quietly and think things out. Through spiritual exercises God speaks to the Madonnians; they listen to God. The feeling of retreat is summed up by Walter Hilton: "For what is more consoling to a soul than to be withdrawn from the world into the peace of spiritual love, where it perceives God's presence and is satisfied with the light of His countenance?"

May Crowning and Madonna Day

Each spring Madonnians follow a beautiful and simple form of Church tradition when senior members of the Sodality crown Mary Queen of heaven and earth. The coronation and the singing of hymns serve to inspire others with devotion to Mary and an unlimited confidence in her intercession.

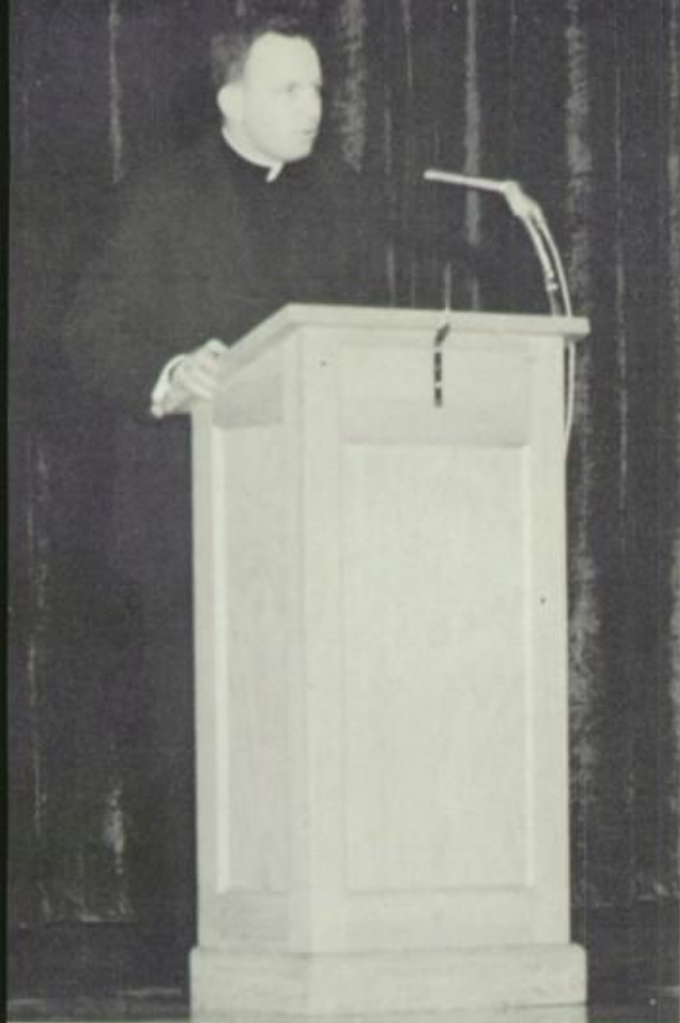

Madonnians claim Mary as their Mother and Patroness and boast of being her children. One day of the year is set aside to honor her in a special way. On Madonna Day all students renew their dedication and promise to serve her and to win others to her love.

Senior Sodality officers of 1964, Joan Cizewski, Darlene Dzieglewicz, Letitia Koziel, and Julianne Kloc prepare to crown the Blessed Mother at the annual May Crowning.

Mary eJan Murphy and Valerie Masessa escort the Reverend James J. O'Brien into the auditorium at the commencement of the Madonna Day Bible service.

Julianne Kloc, 1963-64 Sodality prefect, crowns the Blessed Virgin.

In his opening address, Reverend John E. Flavin outlines the benefits of a Catholic higher education.

Because society in this accelerated age demands longer and better educational preparation, the graduate is determined to be numbered in the ranks of the highly educated—tomorrow's leaders. For many, however, the final decision of vocation or the future has been indeterminate—they wonder how to start or which direction to take.

To aid the students as they continue on their long educational hegira, qualified counselors are invited to speak to the girls concerning educational opportunities offered by the various institutions. Those interested in immediate employment hear representatives from the business field. Each student is aided in finding her place—in playing the role for which she will win her applause.

Sister Mary Ferdinand, O.S.F., distributes brochures illustrating activities at St. Francis College.

Miss Eileen Haley supplements her talk with pictures of the Mundelein campus.

Students and their parents listen attentively as Sister DePaul, D.C., explains the advantages of attending St. Vincent School of Child Care.

Mr. Anthony Tortorella speaks to a group of seniors and their parents concerning the many aspects of life at Rosary College.

College and Career Day

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hamerlak discuss Christine's work in history with Mrs. Florian Mandella.

Sister Mary Seraphinia looks on as Mr. and Mrs. John Perrone examine Marion's typing portfolio.

Parent Night

Annual "check-ups," called Parent Night, help to keep Madonnians scholastically healthy. At these parent-teacher-student conferences, the student's academic progress and social growth are examined. If the diagnosis shows a deficiency in one of these areas, a suitable remedy is prescribed. These conferences often inject into the student a revitalized spirit. In fact, they're just what the doctor ordered!

Sister Mary Sponsa answers a question concerning art procedures.

Sister Mary Bernardonia explains library procedures to Mrs. Josephine Smietana and Diane.

J. Parker and L. Golon observe the maids of the Farnham household, M. Janis and C. Janick, as they greet J. Migon, G. Voegeli, and M. Gilles.

The eccentric Mrs. Farnham (C. Krajenta) faints after learning that her nephew (J. Parker) plans to adopt an orphan. C. Janick, M. Janis, and L. Golon try to revive her.

Everyone is amazed as Mrs. Smythe Kersey (J. Migon) displays her stolen pearls.

Laurel attempts to discourage Miss Madrigal (D. Gaden) from desiring the position of governess.

Drama

Drama deals with the magic world of the stage. This year Madonna's magic world was transported to the Civic Theater, where the drama students competed at the Chicago Drama Festival by presenting "The Chalk Garden" by Enid Bagnold.

The Chicago Drama Festival, because of its presentation of ideas through drama, its insistence on excellence in production, and the contact of young people with their peers, helps young artists to realize the fullness of life with understanding and insight.

The maid (K. Fak) eavesdrops as Mrs. St. Maughm (C. Krajenta) admonishes her daughter (M. Bart).

Drama

Laughter is the best medicine. If this statement is true, Madonna's drama students have undoubtedly cured many ills with the comedy "The Complaining Angel" by Natalie E. White.

This play tells the delightful story of a guardian angel who is assigned to watch over a young nun, Sister Angelica. At the outset of the play, Angel trades her wings and halo for Sister Angelica's habit in order to show her how simple it should be for a nun to become a saint. Angel's ignorance of convent procedures causes a great amount of confusion among the other Sisters, and a great deal of laughter in the audience.

The angel (S. Tobiasz) tells Sister Angelica (J. Leszkiewicz) the simplicity involved in becoming a saint.

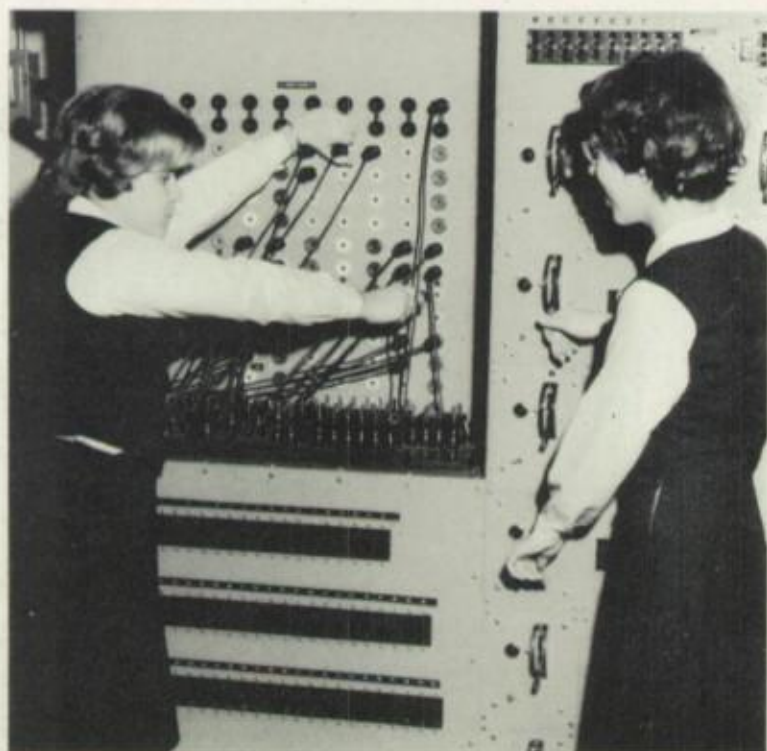

Harry Kozerski displays his unusual religious articles for the Sisters of the convent. Seated: D. Flasz, L. Wolczyk, K. Fak, L. Garski, J. Chuckro, and B. Adams. Standing: A. Lupo, M. Plaza, D. Gudel, M. Bricker and S. Olhava.

Joyce Holewinski, Linda Dubowski, Dianne Helizon, and Barbara Matinkus, sophomore stagehands, arrange scenery for the next drama production.

At the control center are stagehands Judith Kobetz and Mary Ann Schechtel.

Stagehands

The art of the theater is not an individual art; it is essentially a group art in which many contribute to a common effort. Although first in importance are the script and the actors, theatrical performances usually display costumes, scenery, properties, and lighting as well. Responsible for these duties are the unseen heroines of every production—the stagehands. The sense of security that an actor feels when he knows that the props are in place, that entrances will be made on time, and that the curtain will come down when it is supposed to is the best cure for stage fright. The stagehands, who see to these things, help make a finished play out of a very rough and unfinished text.

Joyce Holewinski and Christine Borowy prove that they "know the ropes" as they adjust the stage curtains.

Ceremonies

ADVENT WREATH

Presented by the Third Order, the Advent Wreath ceremony begins with a procession bearing the wreath and the Holy Bible. Recitation of Biblical passages reminds Madonnians that their hearts must be made ready for the coming of the Christ Child. During each of the four weeks of Advent, a candle on the wreath is lit, and the students renew their intentions—to prepare their hearts for Christ.

The Reverend Francis Wachowski initiates a series of Scriptural readings by incensing the Holy Bible.

Senior Third Order Prefect Christine Dudek introduces the guest speaker, the Reverend Francis Wachowski.

Christine Dudek places the Infant Jesus in the crib during the Christmas program commemorating the coming of the Christ Child.

The Reverend Cyril Stak, O.F.M., addresses the assembly during the Christmas program.

CHRIST CHILD

The ceremony of the presentation of the Christ Child completes the four weeks of Advent preparation. Each division presents a gift to the Babe, symbolic of their deep love for Him. Christ, the Light of the world, is about to come, and the students know that they are prepared to welcome Him on Christmas morning.

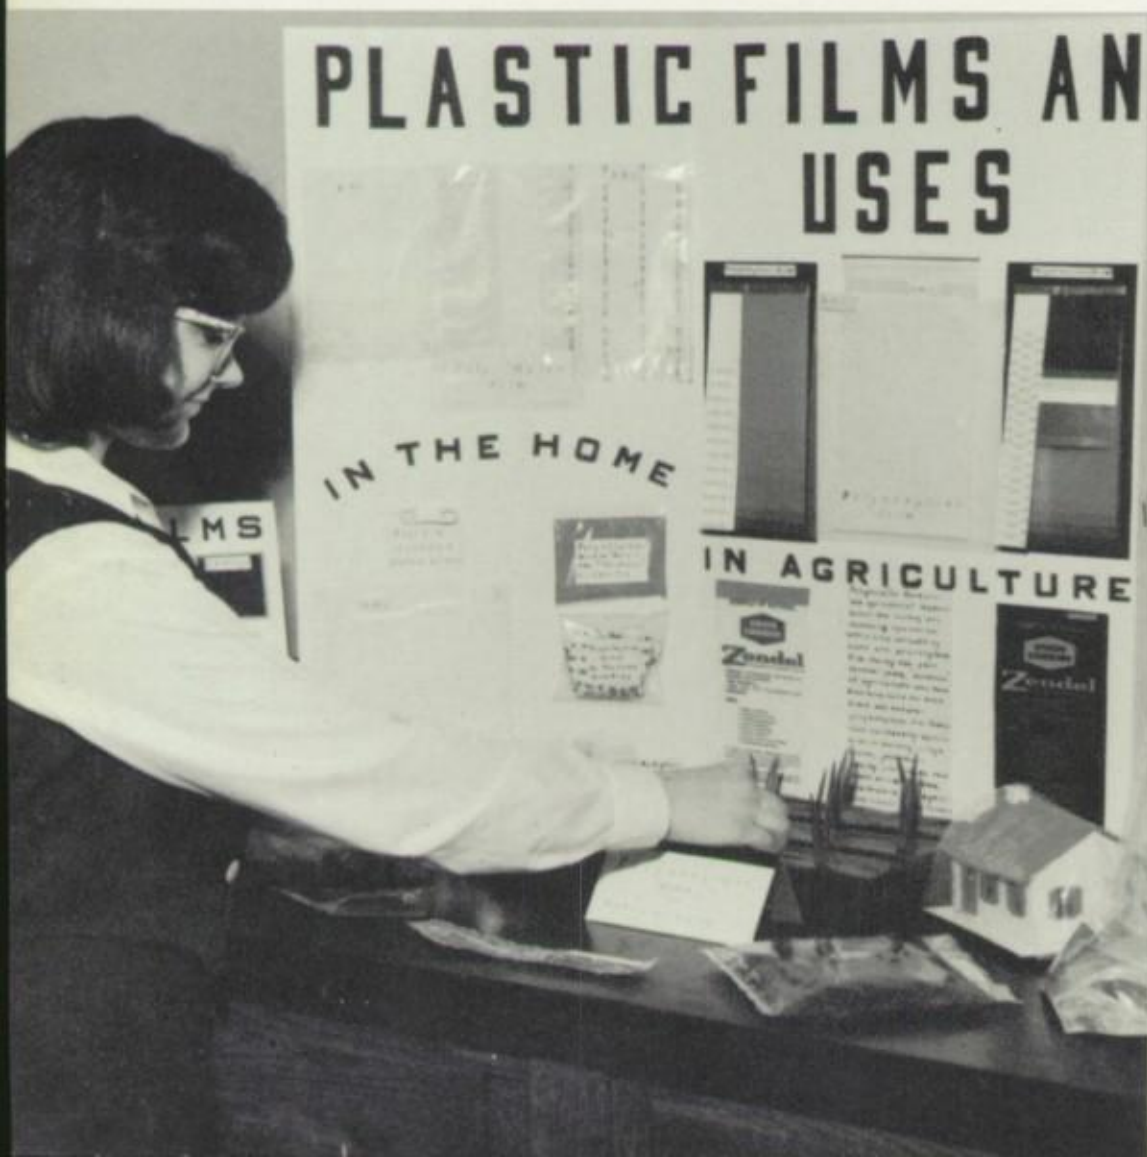

Barbara Azzaro and Alice Glozerls are fascinated by the termite and its environment.

Science Fair

Competition is an integral part of school life. In the realm of science a student's ingenuity and knowledge are brought into focus through competition in the annual Science Fair. Here the student displays her work in the fields of anatomy, astronomy, botany, chemistry, geology, meteorology, physics, and zoology. First Outstanding Awards enable students to exhibit their projects in the City Science Fair at the Amphitheater. From there, girls awarded First Awards enter into keener competition at the State Science Fair in Springfield, Illinois.

Sue Madelinski puts the finishing touches on her science project.

Carole Garstki displays the results of her experiments with thyroid disorders.

Judy Kobetz explains the birth process of a chick to an interested listener.

Karen Reczel's model of the human ear holds Marge Bratek's interest.

Diane Zachacki discusses the possibilities of controlling and eliminating tuberculosis.

Loretta Birtola listens as Mary McDonough explains how the bathyscaph, a submarine vessel, operates at great depths.

Priscilla Pachniak, Christine Olszewski, Barbara Quaid, and Sandra Suwanski present "Le Jour de France" as a French Club project.

Always looking for interesting sights to photograph, Elizabeth Danello, Linda Gaborek, and Barbara Cohn are active Camera Club members.

French Club

Entering the room where the French Club meets is like walking into a French village. Here one converses in French, plays French games, and sings French songs. The club exists to complement and enrich general class activities. Studying the customs, games, and dances leads the members to a broader cultural interpretation of the people of France.

Camera Club

After searching for interesting subjects and spending time over hot developer trays, nothing is more rewarding to a Camera Club member than to see a perfect print "come up." Mr. Marion Schommer, who is responsible for much of this success, introduces the members to technical and artistic aspects of photography. Under his direction, the girls become true "sharp shooters"—with a camera, that is.

Planning for the next meeting of the Future Nurses Club are the officers: Barbara Gerhardt, president; Diane Szempruch, treasurer; Barbara Wasilewski, vice-president; and Patricia Bongiorno, secretary.

Future Nurses Club

The members of the Future Nurses Club seek to develop the interests and attitudes needed for nursing. To interest the students in personal and community health and to help them decide wisely about a career in professional or practical nursing, the club schedules speakers, movies, and tours of medical schools as a part of its program. In preparation for a nursing career, each member of the club is required to give twenty-four hours of volunteer service throughout the year.

Mrs. Roberta Adams, R.N., moderator of the Future Nurses Club, discusses the qualities a nurse should possess.

Members of the Future Nurses Club put the finishing touches on their Thanksgiving projects.

Giving unselfishly of one's energies and time is the practice of every Junior Red Cross member. However small each labor of love is, it reaps its reward. Each week, Madonnians devote time preparing projects which bring happiness to many people—first to the receiver, and as important, to the giver. "Labor shall refresh itself with hope."

Karen Viani, Marie Murphy, Rose Maltese, Sandra Slota, Gloria Zepka, Linda Eckman, and Mary Pontrelli finish their Halloween treats for the people at St. Joseph's Home for the Aged.

As their Red Cross Christmas project, Joan Richter, Josephine Fina, Bonnie Hinton, and Carol Maniola sew stockings to be filled with soap.

Senior officers of the Science Club are: Lynn Hytry, president; Pat Kutza, secretary; Fanny Montalvo, treasurer; and Nancy Kosla, vice-president.

Science Club

The Science Club wants to start fires. Each meeting crackles with the kindling of ideas and the intense heat of working minds. This atmosphere attracts future scientists and other students as well.

What does the club use for fuel? Besides the projects done during the meetings, this year's agenda includes visits to the Argonne Laboratory and the Adler Planetarium. Added strength comes from participation in the annual regional and city Science Fair.

The Science Club doesn't expect conflagrations, but who knows? Little sparks have been known to burst into mighty flames.

Science Club members listen to a project presented by Kathleen Sturgulewski.

Club members are: Bottom Row: M. Ziarko, D. Czosnyka, M. Golon, E. Siers, D. Spiegel, C. Stemplien, L. Gartski. Second Row: M. McDonough, D. Zachacki, E. Ozolins, C. Dudkiewicz, C. Dudek, J. Math Club officers Marieann Wujtowicz, treasurer; Mary Ann Iantorno, president; Rita Olsen, vice-president; and Katherine Kijak, secretary discuss projects to be proposed at the next meeting.

PROBLEM:

If a congenial group of students gathers every second Friday for a Math Club meeting, what is the result?

SOLUTION:

In the left-hand member place all the factors. Let x equal Miss Charlene Pappin, moderator, and the members of the club. To x add the knowledge obtained from mathematical projects, quizzes, demonstrations, and games. Divide by the number of meetings and subtract all apathy. Multiply the entire quantity by enthusiasm and an animated spirit. The result is a well-rounded chapter of the Mu Alpha Theta, whose members share fun and knowledge together.

Mission Club

The Mission Club is charity in action. It is faith being shared with others. Directed by Sister Mary Antoniana, the members seek gifts for their needy world neighbors and for the priests laboring in missions here at home and in those abroad. The funds collected provide the food, clothing, medicine, and other items so desperately needed. Besides this material aid, there is one gift which overshadows all—the prayers of the Mission Club members upon which the success of the mission labors depends.

As 1965 Queen of the Missions, Christine Dudek poses with Rt. Rev. Msgr. James M. Lawler, head of the Society for the Propagation of the Faith.

The Mission Club officers Mary Brickler, secretary; Nancy Kosla, vice-president; Sandra Pashup, treasurer; Lynn Hytry, president; and Christine Dudek, vice-president of C.S.M.C., add final touches to the refreshments for their Christmas party.

C. I. C.

Concern that too many students have too little understanding of the American ideals of equality led to the establishment of the Catholic Interracial Club at Madonna. Its objectives are to promote the learning and understanding of the ideals of democracy. Guided by Mrs. Florian Mandella, members are stimulated to study and discuss critical social and interracial issues, and to participate in projects designed to increase understanding of these issues. Such studies provide a vision of the community and of the marvelous variety of the people in it. This is the best route to self-knowledge which all education must serve.

Jean Kedzior finds reaching to the highest periodical shelf an easy task.

Seeing that the Library Club runs smoothly is the responsibility of the officers: Karen Sims, treasurer; Diane Kolimas, secretary; Diane Dus, vice-president; and Estelle Siers, president.

In conjunction with National Library Week, librarians Pat Nelson, Bonita Paloian, and Ruth Klepfer demonstrate the correct way to cover a book.

Library Club

The members of the Library Club render many services to the school. Each librarian performs duties which include carding and shelving books, preparing filmstrips, and helping students find research material. The members gain experience in library work, acquire a sense of responsibility, and experience a feeling of satisfaction in serving their fellow students and their school.

Janine Koziol and Barbara Kosiński browse through copies of the latest magazines.

Patricia Niziolek instructs a group of eager and attentive young Catholics.

The waving hands of her young pupils are a rewarding sight to Mary Roman.

CCD

The aim of the CCD school of religion is to provide religious education for all those for whom a Catholic school education is not possible. On Wednesday afternoons many Madonnians teach religion in parishes where parochial classrooms are shared with Confraternity pupils.

To be a catechist is an office within the teaching activity of the Church which demands much preparation. Directed by Sister Cheryl Marie, CCD members deepen their knowledge of content and techniques to provide their young pupils with richer instruction.

This is MAdonnaRY '65.

The MAdonnaRY

The MAdonnaRY exists to record a story, the story of Madonna High School and its students. Copy and countless pictures and captions capture the excitement of a new ring, the initiation of Bible Vigils, the construction of a language lab, a Christmas "sing," and everyday classes. Because everyone has something to remember, we won't let this year be forgotten. The MAdonnaRY '65 will tell its story.

Here they come, part of the '65 MAdonnaRY staff: Carole Janick, co-editor; Arlene Euske, editor; Patricia Kutza, co-editor; and Sister Mary Sponsa, moderator and leader!

Sandra Truschke, Karen Sims, and Carol Ann Mooney caption several of the hundreds of photographs used in the yearbook.

Delving into old yearbooks for new ideas, Kathy Kijak, Jean Kedzior, Sue Alchenberger, Diane Dus, Melody Henner, and Patricia Erasmus plan layouts.

MAdonnaRY staff members Janet Wendel, Carol Lapetina, and Barbara Rezutko discuss first drafts for the yearbook cover.

Madonna Clarion

It's a fact . . . it takes legwork, brainwork, and teamwork to publish a school paper. There is no questioning the competence of the Clarion staff; their skills stand out in numerous publications. The reporters dig for facts, cull yards of reports, clarify, then print the real story. Creative Madonnians contribute poems, feature stories, and various human-interest episodes. Key people on the staff, the editor and the co-editor drum into shape the material handed in for publication. Under the direction of the moderators, the backbone of the Clarion, the staff has succeeded in providing Madonnians with solid, informative, colorful reading.

It's the deadline, and the final copy is ready for the press. Finishing touches are added by Editor-in-Chief Louise Phillip and Clarion Moderator Sister Mary Kingnetta.

Karen Mendala, Nancy Kowalski, Linda Smizinski, and Cynthia Krajenta count the Clarion for distribution.

Working at the addressograph, Linda Marksteiner and Marjorie Lepianka, circulation managers, prepare subscribers' address plates.

Christine Jakus, Joyce Bellak, Estelle Siers, and Marilyn Pistorio gather around Sister Mary Seraphinia, Clarion moderator, for approval of their copy.

Marilyn Ratkowski, Linda Glogowski, and Elizabeth Dembinski officiate at an afterschool basketball game.

Miss Reichle looks on as Judith Zelasko and Sandra Olhava discuss the club's finances.

G. A. A.

Experience in sports competition for Madonnians is increasing. The Girls Athletic Association spearheads this trend by sponsoring intramural and interscholastic activities. The nucleus of athletic activity, the G.A.A. has remained in the mainstream of school affairs, organizing events which draw members and non-members alike as participants and spectators. At games, members are found checking coats, refereeing, keeping score, or scoring themselves. All Star Nights, riding parties, and socials are events scheduled by the G.A.A. The end of the year brings pins, guards, letters, and trophies to worthy members.

The Senior Bowling League—Bottom Row: B. Franzen, N. Vangelista, P. Nehrke, K. Stier, M. Andrews, M. Ratkowski, P. Wilson. Second Row: M. Gilles, J. Kedzior, D. Klein, J. Wendel, J. Migon, L. Glogowski.

Bowling League

On Monday and Wednesday afternoons, chatter and laughter mingle with the sound of balls smashing against pins, as many of Madonna's upperclassmen engage in one of America's favorite pastimes—bowling.

At the beginning of the season, gutter-balls are frequent, strikes few, and scores low; but enthusiasm remains high. Perfected techniques result in higher scores, and a sense of sportsmanship and teamwork.

At a banquet held in their honor at the end of the season, players receive trophies for their performances.

Linda Glogowski and Pamela Wilson select the balls to help them get that perfect "300."

Looks good enough for a strike, Karen Stier!

Packing food to send to needy families throughout the city are the Cisca officers: Lucille Guarino, city corresponding secretary; Emily Kukula, vice-president; Nancy Ziebka, secretary and city vice-president; Judy Zelasko, treasurer; Barbara Duggan, president; and Dolores Jungheim, E.O.L. chairman.

Debbie Ardell, Sharon Carbonara, Sharon Staniec, and friends put the finishing touches on the tree at the Christmas Social.

Barbara Duggan and Lucille Guarino, followed by Dolores Jungheim, carry the banner at the Cisca Holy Hour.

Cisca

The Chicago Inter-Student Catholic Action group is a city-wide organization, which sets the example of lay Catholic Action in the home, the school, and the community. Directed by Sister Mary Alvernia and Sister Anne Marie, the members try to conform their wills and actions to the demands made by their faith, especially in what concerns the directives of the Church in the domain of the press, literature, the films and theater, and decency in dress. Cooperating with the Church, the school, and city officials, they aim to establish true Christian ideals throughout the world. Their special activities include holy hours, forums, the Cisca News, and the talent program Ciscarama.

Madonna's representatives at the S.D.S. Fashion Show are lovely to look at, delightful to see. They are: Janice Kummer, S.D.S. Queen of 1964; Linda Gayle, Elizabeth Gross, Sharon Carbonara, Donna Gaden, and Melody Henner.

S. D. S.

Modesty talks . . . indeed, no words can better express the message of the S.D.S. than modesty. Believing that woman holds the moral code of the world in her hands, Madonna's young fashionables crusade against indecency in dress. They do this by acquainting others with the twelve basic standards of the S.D.S. by which appropriate wardrobes may be selected. Both modesty and fashion give the S.D.S. members a snappy salute for a job well done.

Planning the S.D.S. program for the year are Linda Blake, Linda Gaborek, Linda Sue Smizinski, Carol Staniec, and Linda Gayle.

Wanda Weismann, Nancy Vangelista, Christine Jakus, Karen Sims, and Carol Staniec step out in style.

Mrs. Thomas Skaja, treasurer; Mrs. Eugene Klabacha, vice-president; Mrs. Lee McCurley, recording secretary; Marilyn Moskal, president; and Karen Claus, corresponding secretary, discuss plans for the first Hat Fashion Show with the members of the Alumnae Association.

Christine Kowalski and Natalie Campanella are being served refreshments by Marcianne Rzepka, while Mrs. Martin Zyburt doles out "goodies" to Henrietta Buczkowski, Suzanne Padula, Mrs. John Stock, and Carol Kulikowski.

Alumnae Association

Mrs. Lee McCurley displays a "Tupperware" product at a homemakers' demonstration, one of the many activities sponsored by the organization.

Mrs. Martin Zyburt, social chairlady, and her assistants, Marcianne Rzepka and Carol Kulikowski "clean up" at the close of the meeting.

Graduation need not terminate the friendships formed during the student's high school career. Through the Alumnae Association, these friendships as well as new ones flourish, and the bond between the graduate and her Alma Mater is strengthened. Monthly business meetings, an annual retreat, dinner dances, and class reunions highlight the year. Members render service to Madonna, share gratifying experiences and special interests, and keep intact the memories formed during four years at Madonna High School.

Officers of the Mothers' Club and Auxiliary — Standing: The Rev. Walter Szczypula, Chaplain; Mrs. Stanley Zelasko, financial secretary; Mrs. Ted Jaskowski, assistant corresponding secretary; Mrs. Walter Glogowski, recording secretary; Mrs. Steve Porada, 3rd vice-president; and Mrs. Janet Stojak, corresponding secretary. Seated: Mrs. Joseph Gajda, 2nd vice-president; Mrs. Joseph Galuszka, 1st vice-president; and Mrs. Walter Golon, president.

Mothers' Club and Auxiliary

"Where have all the mothers gone?" They've gone to the Mothers' Club meeting, of course. These zealous and self-sacrificing mothers donate their time and support to various educational and social activities throughout the year. Because of its generous and unselfish interest in establishing a strong bond between the school and the home, the club, guided by Sister Mary Alvernia and Sister Mary Ignatius, functions as an integral part of Madonna.

Miss Linda Smizinski, the bride, and Mrs. Raymond Leonhard form part of the bridal party at the "Fashion Show on Ice."

Mothers and daughters take part in the "Fashion Show on Ice" held at the Arena Roller Rink.

Some members admire the table decorations at the "September Table."

Serving coffee to Sister Mary Hugoline, principal, and Sister Mary Crescencia, assistant principal, are Mr. Joseph Lepianka and Mr. John Janus, Jr.

Fathers' Club

To give aid whenever it is needed is the goal of the Fathers' Club. Through their annual Spring Dance, the Fall Festival, and various other activities, the fathers raise funds for the school. In the event of a father's death, a tuition fund insures a completed education at Madonna for his daughter.

Besides aiding the school financially, the Fathers' Club provides ushers and chaperones for many educational and social events. Moderated by Sister Mary Kingnetta and Sister Mary Tyburcia, the Fathers' Club plays an important role at Madonna.

Mr. Theodore Zmuda, financial secretary; Mr. Jerry Angel, recording secretary; and Mr. Jerome Garstki, executive board chairman, distribute individual gifts at the Sisters' Christmas party.

Mr. Adam Panek, program chairman, and Mr. Kenneth Boehlke, Grand Raffle chairman, draw the winning tickets at the Fall Festival.

Fathers' Club

Chicago White Sox player Bill "Moose" Skowron autographs for a fan while Mr. Marion Schommer and Mr. Earl Nehrke look on.

Chaperones for social activities—Mr. Thomas Scanlon, Mr. Albin Pancerz, Mr. Walter Leszkiewicz, Mr. Bruno Smizinski, Mr. Dominic Pistorio, Mr. Joseph Lepianka, Mr. John Rosa, Mr. Earl Nehrke, president; Mr. Stanley Laske, head usher; Mr. Marion Schommer, vice-president.

THE REV. ANDREW KLOSKA, C.R., Chaplain of the Fathers' Club.

Mr. Edwin Winter, treasurer, and Mr. Robert Olson, booth chairman, check financial returns at the Fall Festival.

Harriet and Theresa Musial promise to double their dad's pleasure and fun at the Father-Daughter Dance.

Cafeteria

Sister Mary Albertine, cafeteria manager, and Sister Mary Laetitia, her assistant, direct a trained staff of culinary experts who prepare delicious and wholesome meals for hundreds of famished girls. Friendly and dedicated, these women serve the girls with top efficiency, their smiles adding flavor to the tasty meals they prepare.

Maintenance

Keeping Madonna in A-1 condition is the duty of the maintenance personnel. This gigantic task is handled by the custodians and matrons, who work behind the scenes to keep the school functioning smoothly.

Taking time out from a busy day, Mrs. Harry Kaczynski, Mrs. Frank Gorski, Mrs. John Sujdak, replacement; Mrs. Stanley Laske, and Mrs. Henry Palewicz, replacement, enjoy a coffee break.

Mrs. Stanley Gawel, replacement; Mrs. John Rzepka, and Mrs. Pat Koziol, replacement, prepare cakes for the Christmas dinner.

Working as a team, Mr. Harry Kaczynski and Mr. Robert Hoffman keep the school in tip-top condition.

Sister Mary Laetitia adds that certain touch to a table centerpiece.

Sister Mary Albertine sees that the cafeteria is stocked with food for hungry Madonnians.

ACKNOWLEDGMENT

To all those who contributed their time and effort to the making of the yearbook, the MADonnaRY Staff of 1965 gives thanks —

To Sister Mary Hugoline, our principal; Sister Mary Sponsa and Sister Mary Jude, our moderators; the entire faculty, and the student body . . .

To Mr. R. A. Mitchell of The Graphic Company, our Publisher; the personnel at Stewart and Fryer, Incorporated, Printers and Lithographers; and to Robert Hanson and his staff at Walinger Studios . . .

For making the impossible probable . . .
 The improbable possible . . .
 And the plan of a yearbook . . .
 Not only an idea . . .
 But a reality.

Dear Pennie, —

Best of luck in all future endeavors. Always remember our swinging luncheon, sociology and of course the times I came to lunch. Stay sweet and hope I see you during the summer.

Love & Luck
Rosie - 65 - D.

Dear Pen,

Best of all in the future years. Now,
do a good job in typing.

Love

Dear Pennie,

All the Very Best Life has to offer, Whatever you go, whatever you do. Never forget all the fun we had throughout our High School Days. Let us continue to the end to be the very best of friends
we are today. May God Bless You
Love Always, Angie

Dear Penne,

I'm glad we got to know each other better
in our Junior and Senior year. I hope after we graduate we still ~~can~~ keep in contact (don't forget). I'll always remember the fun we had in 8th period study and in the morning at the table. I wish you all the luck in the future in whatever your plans are. Be good (you always are - HA-HA)
and remember to call me during the summer and I call you to. OK. Bye-Bye for
now. Love Always,
Carol

Dear Penne,

I wish you the best
of luck in your future years.

I hope your dreams
come true,

Love forever
your little sister Preshea,
Pink

Dear Penne
It's been fun sitting with you in Soc. I hope you have the best of luck now and in the future.
Felly B.

Dear Penne.
Best of Luck
Stay sweet and don't forget good old Madonna and all the good times
we have had. Keep in contact with us.
Love (M.)
P

Dear Penne,

Well we both
finally made it through.
We have lots of fun together in everything we did. Don't forget where I live. Good luck. When are we going to find jobs??

Lots of love,
Mary Savinich. '65

Dear Penne,
Best of luck
Won't forget you,
Hope to see you.
love

Dear Penne
Best of Luck
in your future years. It has been fun knowing you.
Don't lose any more
contacts with you.
Love
Zinda

Dear Penne,

We've lasted 4 years together. I hope that our friendship hasn't finished.
I'll always remember you.
You're really a great kid
and a pal of a friend.
Always remember me and the fun we had starting with General Science & ending with Office
Practice. Stay sweet always. Good luck
in the future.
Love,
Jo Ann '65'

Dear Penne,

We've been good
friends for the 4 years
& they were fun.
You're a real sweet & cute kid. I'll always remember
you. Be good & maybe I'll see
you in the summer.

Love ya!
